

fun party social enjoyment freedom
entertainment fun
social freedom
party enjoyment
freedom enjoyment
entertainment fun
fun freedom fun
socialising party
party enjoyment
freedom socialising
fun entertainment

The Entertainer

Entertainers are typically very jolly and bright people. They are inspired by fun, enthusiasm, happiness and energy. Their extroverted, outgoing and spontaneous nature leads them to approach life with a life-affirming attitude. Devoted and little nonverbal signals won't react well with Entertainers. They want to see the same enthusiasm in others as they have themselves.

The Entertainer

Facial expressions

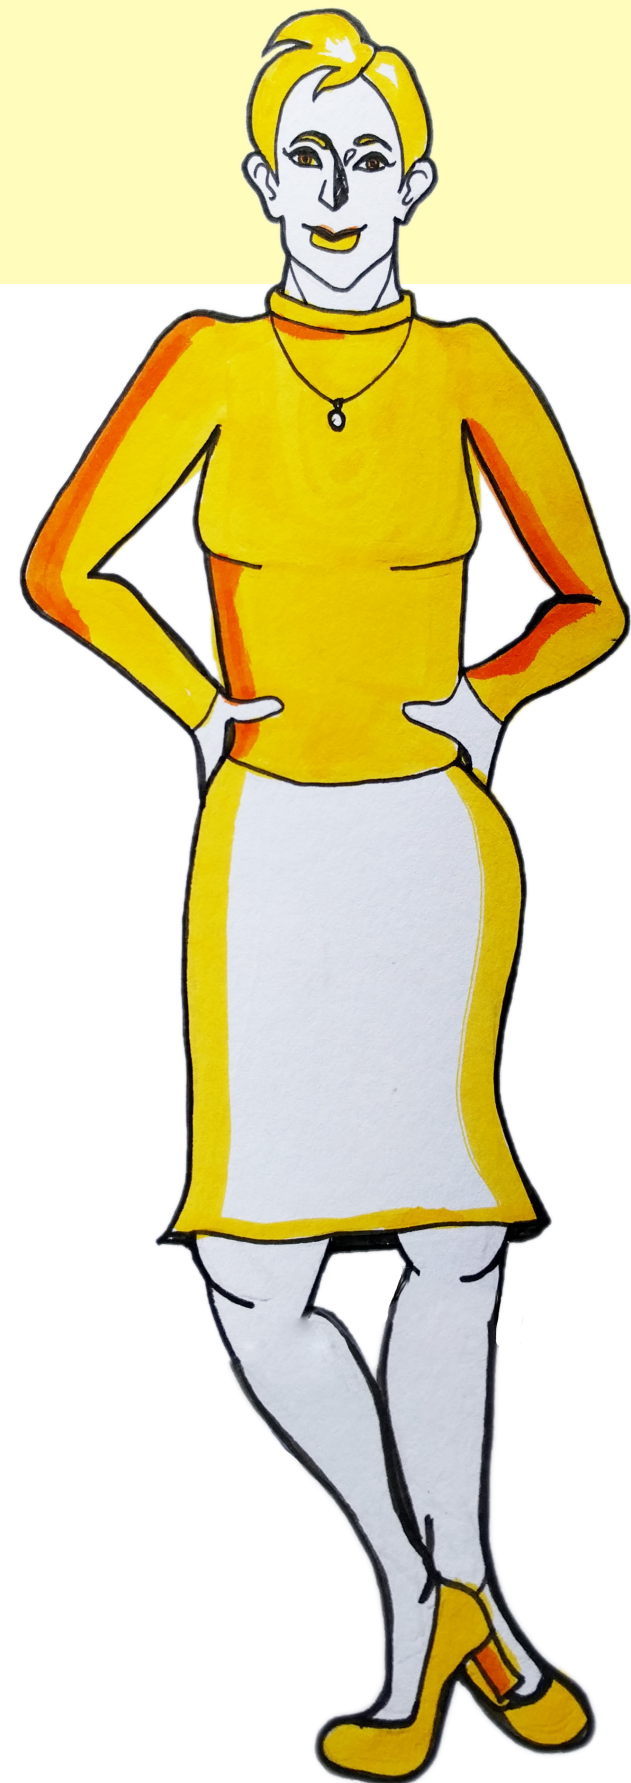

Entertainers are people who honestly enjoy life. You will normally find an authentic smile on their face. An authentic smile can be recognised when the corners of the mouth show upwards and the eyes are involved in the smile.

Posture

The crossed-legged stand is a sign of a playful and comfortable mood. The crossed-legged person is confident and is not thinking of flight or aggression. Nevertheless, the direction of the leg-cross shows if your communication is in good terms (the top leg crossed over will point towards the other person) or bad terms.

Also a sign of confident and playful behaviour is showing the neck. It is a sign of trust and confidence.

The Entertainer

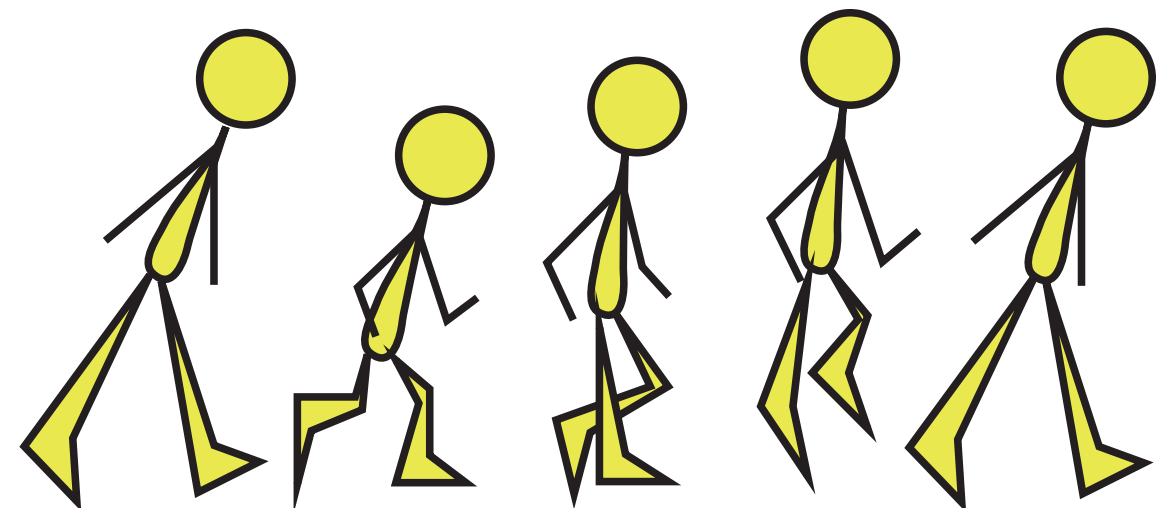

Feet

Teetering feet are a sign of a happy mood or good news.

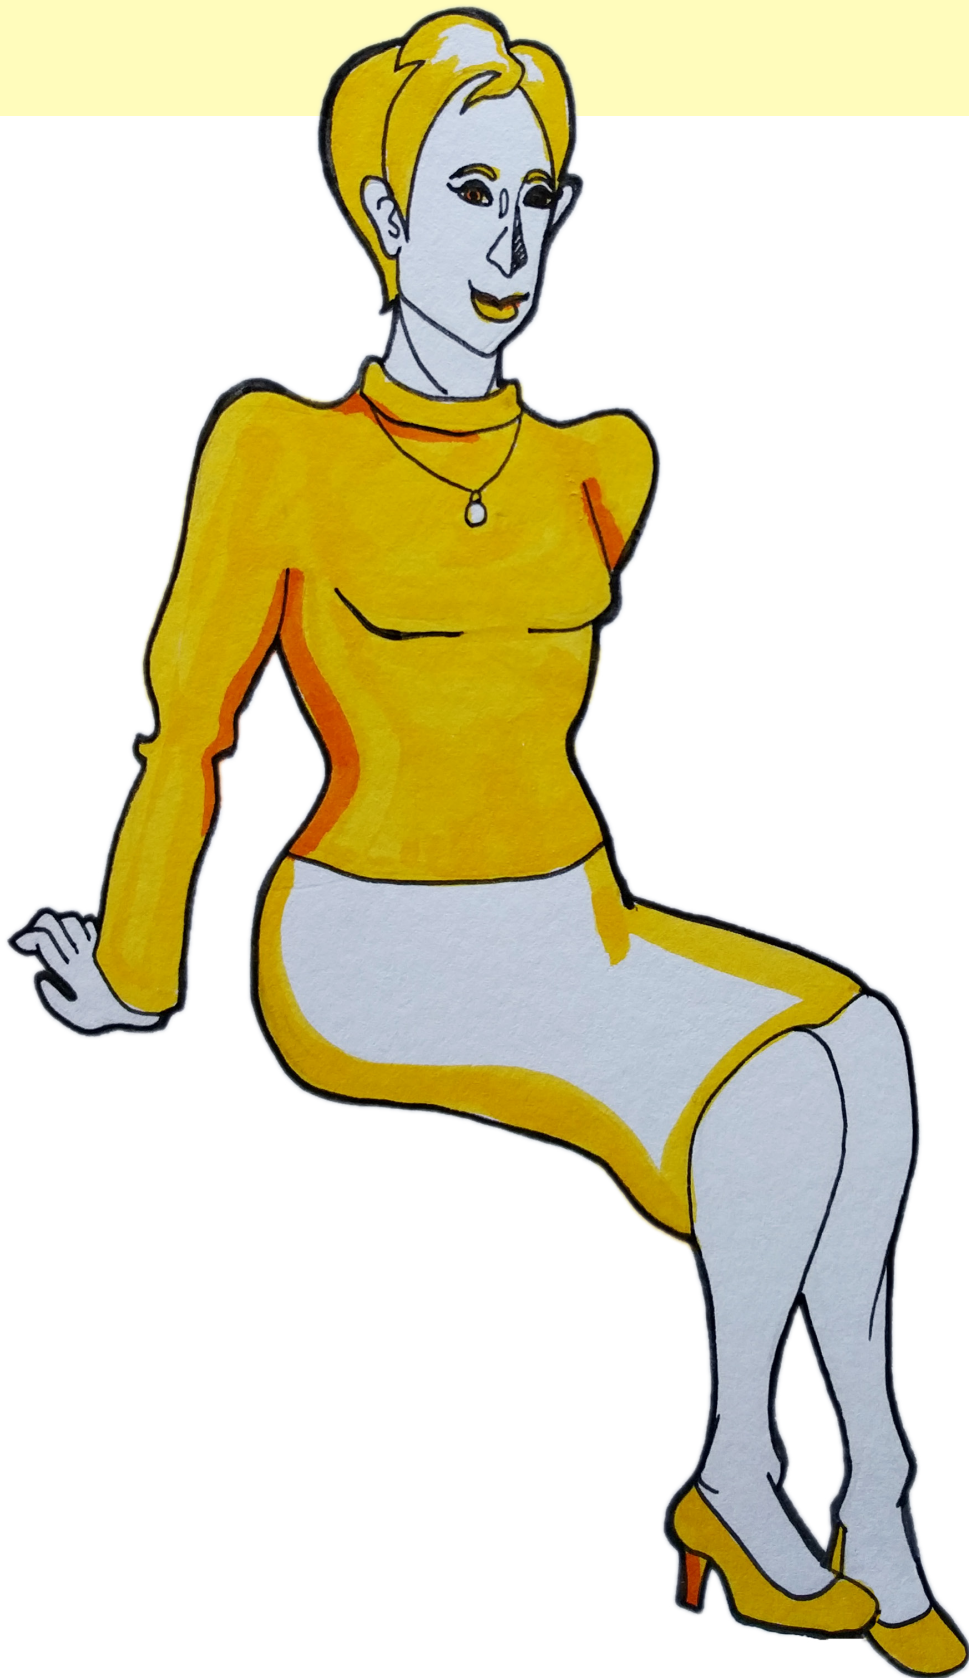

Walk

Entertainers are showing a dancing-like, bouncy walk with swinging arms. That represents their enthusiastic mood.

The Entertainer

Clothes

Entertainers wear 'business casual' clothes that are spiced with flirtatious and colourful details.